Since 2017, John, a Falmouth History Archive (FHA) volunteer, has been very busy on the FHA's behalf!

During these years he has developed a relational database, Archive Db, for searching our FHA digital records. These include a fascinating collection of several thousand digital images, indexes and catalogues, and a wide variety of documents relating to Falmouth.

John is generously providing FHA with support in using Archive Db. Currently ten volunteers have accessed one of his training sessions, learning more about the capabilities of the database and how to make effective key word searches on topics of interest.

Many thanks to John for all his work, and to The Poly's new, modern and reliable server which, amongst other Poly applications – also hosts our database!
