Falmouth History Archive (FHA) volunteers learning how to make protective covers for fragile books at the recent Cornwall Archive Network training day ...

Cornwall Archive Network (CAN) is based at and coordinated from Kresen Kernow in Redruth and supports over 80 Cornish archive and heritage groups.

Through CAN and at no cost, groups can:

- access high quality practical training,
- learn about sources of funding and how to apply for them,
- meet up with other archive volunteers and share ideas for coping with the challenges that archives face.

These can include difficulties in recruiting or keeping volunteers, using premises that are old and cold, and universally ... making the best use of limited financial resources.

AT FHA we feel fortunate that our archive is based in The Poly building - and very grateful for the support The Poly gives us!
